VICTIMS WOULD ENCIRCLE EARTH

Vivid Illustration of Death Through Carelessness Is Given by Safety Talker.

If the children killed during the past 20 years while trespassing on railroads were to be placed as mile posts one at each mile post, they would more than stretch around the world. This was the statement of Ed L. Tinker, safety supervisor of the El Paso and Southwestern system, at the chamber of commerce luncheon, Thursday, at the Sheldon. It was but one of the many statements he made relative to the safety movement in the United States. He declared that while the federal government had taken steps long ago to protect the forests with the ranger and had expended large sums in attempting to exterminate the boll weevil, it was only lately that effective measures had been adopted for the saving of human life lost by carelessness.

The railroads, he declared, have been compelled to bear the brunt of accidents because they alone are required to make reports on all accidents, while hundreds and thousands of persons are killed and maimed in factories and mills throughout the country.

Southwestern Decreases Accidents.
"This safety movement," he said, "has not been confined to the railroads, although it originated with them. In the southwest, the El Paso & Southwestern system since March has received 691 safety suggestions from its employees and 515 have been put in force, the other 118 having been decided impractical, all but 11 of them by a committee of the board of directors. The Southwestern employs 1800 more men than last year and is operating 75 miles more of road, but the number of accidents has been materially decreased because of the safety movement."

"The El Paso street railway and the Douglas smelters, as well as several of the mining companies, have adopted safety systems," he said.

"El Pasoans who have been in the habit of jumping off our trains when they slow down coming through town, have been running great risks, and this could avoid this danger by stopping this practice."

Many Trespassers Killed.
"During the last 20 years there were 36,723 trespassers killed on the railroads of the United States and 34,626 were injured. Of these 25,000 were children, 26,000 were hoboes and 126,103 were honest working men who walked on railroad property on their way to and from work or hopped trains to get home or to work quicker."

"Every 15 minutes of every day of the 365 days in a year one man engaged in peaceful pursuits in this country is killed and every 15 seconds of every minute one man is injured."

A New Copper Reducer.
Dr. Oliver B. Downey explained to the luncheon the workings of his new process for the reduction of copper minerals to metal in one operation without fuming the furnace. He explained that his plant is at the El Paso foundry. It consists of a preheating furnace and a reduction furnace.

The former is heated by the by-product gases from the reduction furnace, saving time and fuel. Sulphide ores are roasted and the oxidized ores are heated preparatory to being charged into the reduction furnace. In the latter furnace, the heat is raised to 1500 degrees Fahrenheit. Then one percent of carbon is added and the outlets closed and carbonic oxide is formed. Hydrogen is released by the decomposition of the water carried in with the carbon. Valves regulate the pressure caused by the evolution of these gases. The reduction of oxide to metallic copper proceeds rapidly.

Reduces in 15 Minutes.
Reduction is complete in 15 minutes after the carbon is charged and the furnace ready to be discharged, he said. The gases are not melted. After the charged is cooled, it is ground in the usual way.

The reduction furnace is a rotary one in the form of a double cone, wide at the center and narrower at the ends. This assures easy discharge. The rate of revolution is one in every five minutes. The practical efficiency of the furnace has been made by tests at Mexico and Arizona ores, made in El Paso, he declared.

The difference between his smelting process and that in general use is that it pays no attention to the 30 or 35 percent of ores that are valueless and acts only upon the useful ores. The only supplies required in the operation of the plant are 10 gallons of crude oil for heating and 20 pounds of charcoal for the reduction of each ton of ore treated.

The new members reported by P. E. Kern were: J. J. McCullough, Thornton Harlow, Hilburn Bros. Manufacturing company, A. B. Shindler, Sam B. Gillett, John Gedon.

THE BUG PEST HAS NOW STRUCK ALBUQUERQUE TOWN.

Millions of the Little Insects Such as Have Been Troubling El Paso—Now Are Now Seen Here.

Albuquerque, N. M., July 10.—Myriads of bugs, swarming under arc lights at street crossings, drove people off the streets early last night. The bugs made their appearance last week, entering residences and stores despite screens, and proclaimed themselves a pest. Last night, however, their numbers increased the annoyance they caused.

Few women last night dared to cross the streets under arc lights. Most of them crossed in the middle of blocks. The bugs crawled in the hair of those who had the temerity to pass under lights. Women were not the only victims. The insects swarmed in under men's collars with perfect accuracy. Although they seemed to prefer the bright lights on the pavement, they were found everywhere. The bugs were thick on the pavement under the street light and along the sidewalks near the electrically lighted windows. When automobiles passed the crunching of hundreds of bug bodies under the tires was distinctly audible several feet away.

YOUTH, TIME OF ANOMALIES

Springtime of Life Is Full of Contradictions, But Is Great Flood of Energy.

How shall I describe Youth, the time of contradictions and anomalies? The farthest radicalism, the most dogged conservatism, irreparable gayety, bitter melancholy—all of these moods are equally part of that showery springtime of life. One thing, at least, it clearly is, a great, rich rush and flood of energy. It is as if the store of life had been accumulating through the slow, placid years of childhood, and suddenly the dam had broken and the waters rushed out, furious and uncontrolled, before settling down into the quieter channels of middle life. The youth is suddenly seized with a poignant consciousness of being alive, which is quite wanting to the naive unquestioning existence of the child. He finds himself overpoweringly urged toward self-expression. Just as the baby, born into a "great, blooming, buzzing confusion," and attracted by every movement, every color, every sound, kicks madly in response in all directions, and only gradually gets his movements co-ordinated with the orderly and rhythmic movements of his elders—so the youth suddenly born into a confusion of ideas and appeals and traditions responds in the most chaotic way to this new spiritual world, and only gradually learns to find his way about in it, and get his thoughts and feelings into some kind of order.—Atlantic Monthly.

TARIFF BILL IS NOW READY FOR REPORT

Measure Will Be Before the Senate Friday—Minority May Not Try Delays.

CURRENCY MAY NOT BE ACTED UPON NOW

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 10.—Chairman Simmons has called a meeting of the senate finance committee for tomorrow morning with the intention of reporting the tariff bill to the senate tomorrow afternoon. Republican members probably will not attempt any delay. The democratic purpose to begin the debate Monday and keep the bill continuously before the senate until it is passed. Republican leaders agree that this probably will be before September 1.

Senator Smoot predicted today that there would be no currency legislation until the winter session.

Court May Rule on Tariff.
If the tariff revision bill becomes a law as it has been passed upon by the senate democratic caucus, many of its provisions will be decided upon in the courts for interpretation in the opinion of Republican leaders.

Senator Smoot said that the changes in phraseology and reclassifications in the bill are such that it would take four years of court procedure to settle just what they mean, and that revenues in the meantime would be held up.

Expect Hard Fight in Senate.
The democratic senators, in view of former head of the U. S. steel corporation, whom J. Pierpont Morgan declares to be well informed on the offers of David Lamar to protect the steel corporation interests at Washington.

The failure of the caucus to pass a stringent binding resolution, are going to be permitted to vote for amendments to the wool and sugar schedules, according to claims made by the Republicans.

They expressed the belief that amendments would pass the senate cutting out free raw wool and free sugar, but that the house conference would insist upon the original provisions: that the senate conference would yield, and that all the democrats finally would approve the conference report.

The final draft of the Underwood-Simmons bill has been completed by majority members of the finance committee and sent to the printer. Chairman Simmons is expected to report it to the senate.

Probe Wool Association.
The senate lobby committee spent the greater part of the day in executive session, supposedly looking over the books of the National Wool association. Clarence H. Brown, of New York, chairman of the Hosiery Manufacturers executive committee, testified briefly at a short open session.

Amend Currency Bill.
Secretary McAdoo has issued a statement announcing that he and chairman Owen and Glass, of the senate and house banking and currency committee, have agreed on an amendment to the currency bill which would retain the circulation privilege for the United States two percent bonds during the entire period of 20 years over which it is proposed to retire the existing $700,000,000 issue of national bank notes secured by the bonds.

Examination of several features of the administration currency bill has begun by the currency and banking committee of the chamber of commerce of the United States, which is in session here. It is probable that several days will be consumed in the committee's discussion.

It was said at the headquarters of the committee that the chamber is not opposed to the bill as it stands, but believes that it needs strengthening in several vital particulars.

GRAND JURY MAY CONSIDER IMPERSONATIONS OF CONGRESSMEN.

New York, July 10.—Deputy United States district attorney Marshall has admitted that he is investigating the activities of David Lamar, a Wall street operator who appeared before the senate lobby probe, with a view to bringing them to the attention of the grand jury if the facts warrant. Among the federal statutes which he is studying in connection with the case is section 22 of the criminal code, which provides a fine of $1000 or three years imprisonment for "whoever, with intent to defraud, either the United States or any person, shall falsely assume or pretend to be an officer or employee acting under the authority of the United States, or any department or any officer of the government thereof and shall take upon himself to act as such, or shall in such pretended character demand or obtain from any officer of the government thereof or any McMichael was formerly chief of pages, later a messenger, acting as a door-keeper, and several months ago was appointed as elevator conductor.

Mulhall charged that while holding the different positions in the capital, McMichael was a principal spy of the manufacturers' organization in "the undertakings and movements" of reports and received from $25 upward from the organization.

Superintendent Woods removed McMichael as the result of revelations in the lobby investigation.
